

Dear Judith,

We need your urgent help to protect 3.8 million acres of threatened rainforest habitat and thousands of species in the Peruvian Amazon.

The vast Loreto region in northeastern Peru is under siege by opportunistic forces grabbing land to extract natural resources and establish megafarms. The destruction of this ecosystem is driving imperiled wildlife like the Jaguar, Giant Otter, White-bellied Spider Monkey, Yellow-footed Tortoise and Lowland Tapir closer to extinction.

With your support, Rainforest Trust and our partner, Centro para el Desarrollo del Indígena Amazónico, are working to safeguard this vital landscape—an area three times the size of the Grand Canyon National Park.

In honor of Earth Day, your generous gift received today and tomorrow will be tripled, up to $200,000, giving your $50 donation the same impact as $150. Donate now and help us meet our goal to raise $200,000 towards funding this urgent project.

Together we can protect the Peruvian Amazon's diverse wildlife and its critical role in storing carbon for the benefit of all life on Earth.

Donate Now

For the rainforests,

Leslie VanSant
Vice President of Philanthropy
Rainforest Trust

Urgent Projects Contact FAQs Privacy Policy

Rainforest Trust
P.O. Box 841
Warrenton, VA 20188

